Non-GAAP Financial Measures

Our consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States ("U.S. GAAP"). We use a non-GAAP financial measure to evaluate our results of operations and as a supplemental indicator of our operating performance. The non-GAAP financial measure that we use is Adjusted EBITDA. Adjusted EBITDA (as defined below) is considered a non-GAAP financial measure as defined by Regulation G promulgated by the SEC under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. Due to the significance of non-cash, non-ecuring, and acquisition related expenses recognized for the year ended December 31, 2020, and the likelihood of material non-cash, nonrecurring, and acquisition related expenses to accur in future periods, we believe that this non-GAAP financial measure enhances the understanding of our historical and urrent financial results at well as provides investors with measures used by management for the planning and forecasting of future periods, as well as for may end and for analyze and evaluate financial and strategic planning decisions that will directly affect operating decisions and investments. We believe that Adjusted EBITDA enables or board of directors and management to evaluate financial acquisition targets. We believe the presentation of this measure is adjusted to a performance of our business because it provides a link between operational performance and apperating income. It is also a primary measure used by management in evaluating companies as potential acquisition targets. We believe the presentation of this measure is also aver used by management in evaluating companies as potential acquisition targets. We believe the presentation of this measure is also a view performance in a manner similar to the method used by management. We believe the presentation of this measure is also an operating performance and makes it essier to compare our results with other companies that have different capital structures or taxrets. In addition, we believe this measur

The presentation of Adjusted EBITDA should not be construed as an inference that our future results will be unaffected by unusual, infrequent or non-recurring items or by non-cash items. This non-GAAP financial measure should be considered in addition to, rather than as a substitute for, our actual operating results included in our condensed consolidated financial statements.

We define Adjusted EBITDA as consolidated operating income (loss) adjusted to exclude interest, taxes, depreciation, amortization, acquisition-related costs, consulting fees related to acquisitions, dividend payments, non-cash share-based compensation expense, and adjustments for other unusual and infrequent in nature identified charges. Adjusted EBITDA is not an earnings measure recognized by US GAAP and does not have a standardized meaning prescribed by GAAP; accordingly, Adjusted EBITDA may not be comparable to similar measures presented by other companies. We believe Adjusted EBITDA to be a meaningful indicator of our performance that provides useful information to investor regarding our financial condition and results of operations. The most comparable GAAP measure is operating income.

Adjusted EBITDA has important limitations as an analytical tool, and you should not consider it in isolation or as a substitute for analysis of our results as reported under GAAP. Some of these limitations are:

- ranions are: Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect our cash expenditures or future requirements for capital expenditures or contractual commitments;
- Adjusted BITDA does not reflect changes in, or cash requirements for, our working capital needs: Adjusted BITDA does not reflect changes in, or cash requirements for, our working capital needs: Adjusted BITDA does not reflect the effects of preferred dividend payments, or the cash requirements necessary to fund; Although amortization and depreciation are non-cash charges, the assets being depreciated will often have to be replaced in the future, and Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect any future cash requirements for such replacements: Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect the impact of stock-based compensation upon our results of operations; Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect the significant interest expense, or the cash requirements necessary to service interest or principal payments on our debt;

- Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect our income tax (benefit) expense or the cash requirements to pay our income taxes; Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect the impact of acquisition related expense; and the cash requirements necessar; Adjusted EBITDA does not reflect the impact of other non-recurring, infrequent in nature and unusual expense; and Other companies in our industry may calculate Adjusted EBITDA differently than we do, limiting its usefulness as a comparative measure.
